Always drink
 In your drinking water, there are 100 mg of lead per liter. If you drink 2 liters of water a day, you will ingest 200 mg of lead. This is a significant amount of lead, especially if you are a child or a pregnant woman. Lead is a neurotoxin and can cause brain damage, especially in children. It can also cause reproductive problems in adults. Lead is also a carcinogen and can cause cancer. Therefore, it is important to drink water that is free of lead. There are many ways to remove lead from water, including boiling, distillation, and reverse osmosis. However, the most effective way to remove lead from water is to use a water filter that is specifically designed to remove lead. There are many different types of water filters available, so it is important to choose one that is certified to remove lead. Look for a filter that has been tested and certified by a reputable organization, such as the National Sanitation Foundation Water Quality Institute (NSF) or the International Association of Water Filtration Manufacturers (IAWQ). Once you have chosen a filter, it is important to replace it regularly. Most filters have a lifespan of 6 months to 1 year, so be sure to check the manufacturer's instructions for more information. By following these steps, you can ensure that you are drinking water that is free of lead and safe for your health.

Palestinian PM resigns; Arafat under pressure to stamp out corruption

Yasser Arafat's resignation as prime minister of the Palestinian Authority is expected to be announced in the coming days, according to a source familiar with the situation.

Arafat, who has been in power since 1994, is facing mounting pressure to resign due to widespread allegations of corruption within his administration.

The source, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said that Arafat's resignation is a foregone conclusion. "He is under a lot of pressure," the source said. "He is the only one who can save the situation."

Britons won't trust Blair in new war, says poll

A new poll shows that Britons are unlikely to support a new war, even if it is led by Prime Minister Tony Blair.

The poll, conducted by the British Social Attitudes survey, found that only 15% of Britons support a new war, while 85% oppose it.

The poll also found that Britons are unlikely to trust Blair to lead a new war. Only 10% of Britons trust Blair to lead a new war, while 90% do not.

Claudine: Yes, there's trouble between Gretchen and the family

FAMILY FEUD. "It's hard when your family is involved," says a tearful Claudine.

By Alexa H. Bacay

WHATEVER happens in the family stays within the family.

Claudine Barretto invoked this rule which she said her parents taught them, as she refused to talk about the details of the ongoing rift between her niece Gretchen and the rest of the family.

But Claudine, in a lunch with the entertainment press last Thursday, did talk about the rift.

"Yes, there's trouble," she told of "Mama" said in Filipino. "There really is."

Claudine declared the rifters hostile to her brother-in-law, comedian Dennis Padilla, husband of her niece Marjorie.

We are all on Kuya Dennis' side," she said. "The whole Barretto family. We love Kuya Dennis and we respect him a lot. And we will support him because we know right from wrong. We know what's right and what's not."

She clarified, however, that when she said the Barretto family was standing behind Dennis, it didn't include her niece Gretchen.

According to reports, the falling out started between Gretchen and Marjorie and Dennis. Dennis had questioned Gretchen about the hitting of actress comedienne Willie Revillame by ABS-5, which is hosted by Gretchen's live-in partner, Pinoy Boy Cuyugan. Dennis had lost his registration on the network "MTB" on ABS-CBN after the network kicked out Willie and gave the hour-long show a new format.

After Dennis questioned Willie's honesty, Gretchen reportedly wrote Marjorie and Dennis out of the Patisbakung condominium unit at the Loyola Grand Villas in Quezon City that they had been occupying, which Gretchen owns.

At first, Claudine said she didn't want to speak on the issue because of her parents' rule that whatever happens in the family should stay within the family.

"But certain people started to talk," Claudine said in Filipino, without identifying any one. "Hindi man anumdok ang gumagaling sa hinagpitan pa rin."

"This has been going on for a long time," she said. "And it's hard because it's making Kuya Dennis and Marjorie look bad. We were hoping that people would understand the silence of the family, from my dad to my brothers and my sisters and myself. The silence of Kuya Dennis means a lot. This is not mere sympathy. It has to be something really deep for us not to talk about it."

"There are some things that you should not talk about with other people," she added.

She especially feels for Dennis, she said, because she knows that what "the other camp" is telling the media about him is not true.

"Every day they talk about Kuya on TV, in the papers," she said. "And you never heard us say anything. The whole family, from my dad and mom, has not talked about it."

She recalled that Gretchen earlier said Claudine should not join in the fray since Gretchen was not quarreling with her anyway. "She's right," said Claudine. "But I would do the same for her (and come to her defense). I've done the same for her so many times. The Barrettos fight for each other."

Claudine complained that it was hard not to take sides. "It's hard when your family is involved."

Claudine, who started crying when she talked about her family, concluded: "Wala kaming utang na loob kas. Wala kaming hangin. Voluntary 'yan. At hindi rin makapal ang makita ng Kuya Dennis ko or sa Marjorie."

Claudine is turning 25 tomorrow, July 20. She is going on a six-day birthday leave from ABS-CBN.

Peace in peril

FOR the first time in its history, the Philippine government is facing a serious threat to its peace and stability. The recent developments in the southern part of the country have raised the specter of a full-scale civil war. The government's failure to address the root causes of the conflict has led to a deepening of the crisis. The situation is now at a critical juncture, and the government must take immediate action to prevent a worst-case scenario from unfolding.

The conflict in the south has been ongoing for decades, with various groups vying for power and control. The government's military response has been limited and ineffective, leading to a loss of confidence among the people. The recent developments have shown that the government is not willing to negotiate or engage in dialogue with the rebels. This has only fueled the fire and led to a more determined and organized rebel force.

The situation in the south is now a ticking time bomb. The government must take a bold and decisive step to resolve the conflict. It must be willing to negotiate and engage in dialogue with the rebels. It must also take steps to address the root causes of the conflict, such as poverty, unemployment, and lack of access to basic services. Only through a combination of these measures can the government hope to restore peace and stability to the southern part of the country.

ABS-CBN vs GMA-7 in Angelo's village

By Thomas Brown

MANILA (Inquirer) — A dispute between ABS-CBN and GMA-7 over the rights to broadcast the funeral of a prominent businessman has turned into a legal battle. The two networks are vying for the exclusive rights to air the funeral of a prominent businessman, who died last week. The dispute has led to a series of legal maneuvers, including the filing of a writ of injunction by ABS-CBN to prevent GMA-7 from broadcasting the funeral. The case is currently being heard by the Sandiganbayan, the Philippine's anti-graft court.

Mindanao shippers fear new law will raise freight costs

MANILA, July 16 (AP) — Mindanao shippers are worried that a new law passed by the Philippine Congress will raise freight costs and hurt the island's economy. The law, which was passed last week, would require shippers to use a new system of freight rates that would be set by the government. Shippers say this would be a major increase in costs, and they are worried that it would hurt the island's economy. They are also worried that the law would hurt the island's tourism industry, which is a major source of income for the island. Shippers are also worried that the law would hurt the island's agriculture industry, which is another major source of income for the island. They are also worried that the law would hurt the island's manufacturing industry, which is another major source of income for the island. Shippers are also worried that the law would hurt the island's services industry, which is another major source of income for the island. They are also worried that the law would hurt the island's overall economy, which is another major source of income for the island.

RP troops in Iraq bid farewell today

MANILA — The 1st Cavalry Division (1CD) of the Philippine Army (PA) bid farewell to its troops who were deployed to Iraq for a year, as they returned home today.

The 1CD, which was the first of the Philippine Army's units to be deployed to Iraq, arrived in the country on May 1, 2008. The unit was deployed to the Multi-National Force in Iraq (MNF-I) to provide security and support to the Iraqi government.

The 1CD's deployment to Iraq was part of the Philippines' contribution to the international coalition forces in Iraq. The unit's mission was to provide security and support to the Iraqi government, and to help the Iraqi people rebuild their country.

The 1CD's deployment to Iraq was a significant achievement for the Philippine Army, as it was the first time that a Philippine unit had been deployed to a conflict zone. The unit's deployment to Iraq was also a testament to the Philippines' commitment to international peace and security.

The 1CD's deployment to Iraq was a challenging one, as the unit had to operate in a hostile environment. The unit's mission was to provide security and support to the Iraqi government, and to help the Iraqi people rebuild their country. The unit's deployment to Iraq was a significant achievement for the Philippine Army, as it was the first time that a Philippine unit had been deployed to a conflict zone.

Caloocan kicks off revamp of top cops

By John C. Reyes Jr.

The Caloocan Police Department (CPD) kicked off a major revamp of its top command structure on Monday, April 14, 2008. The CPD, which has a long history of serving the community, is undergoing a significant restructuring to improve its efficiency and effectiveness. The new structure will see the appointment of several key positions, including the Chief of Police, Deputy Chief, and various division commanders. The CPD is committed to providing the highest quality of service to the residents of Caloocan and ensuring the safety and security of the city. The revamp is part of a larger initiative to modernize the police force and address the challenges it faces in the 21st century.

BF says Navotas dump technically sound, safe

The Bureau of Fire (BF) has declared the Navotas dump site technically sound and safe after a thorough inspection. The BF team, led by the Chief of the Bureau, conducted a detailed assessment of the site, which has been the subject of concerns from the local community. The inspection found that the dump site meets all the necessary safety standards and that there is no immediate risk to the surrounding area. The BF will continue to monitor the site and work with the local government to ensure the proper management of the dump.

Squatters invade Manila park

A group of squatters has invaded a park in Manila, causing a significant disruption to the community. The squatters, who are reportedly homeless, have taken over a large area of the park, which is a popular recreational spot for many residents. The local government has expressed its concern and is working to resolve the situation. The squatters have been seen setting up makeshift homes and using the park's facilities. The invasion has led to complaints from the local residents, who are unable to enjoy the park as usual. The local government is planning to evict the squatters and restore the park to its original state.

Cabbies make a killing in Marikina

Cabbies in Marikina are reportedly making a killing, as the city's economy continues to grow. The cabbies, who are mostly from the surrounding areas, are taking advantage of the increasing number of tourists and business travelers in the city. The fares are high, and the cabbies are working long hours to maximize their earnings. The local government is monitoring the situation and is considering measures to regulate the cabbies' activities. The cabbies' success is a reflection of the city's economic growth and the increasing demand for transportation services.

Millers plan to export sugar to prop up domestic prices

By [Name] [Location]

Map showing the location of the sugar industry in the Philippines.

MANILA, July 18 (AP) — The Philippine Sugar Corporation (PhilSugar) is planning to export sugar to prop up domestic prices, a move that could help stabilize the market.

The move comes as the domestic market for sugar remains weak, with prices continuing to fall. PhilSugar officials say the export plan is still in the early stages of planning.

BIR: Raising rates won't solve VAT problem

By [Name] [Location]

MANILA, July 18 (AP) — The Bureau of Internal Revenue (BIR) is warning that raising rates will not solve the VAT problem, as the government seeks to balance its budget.

The BIR officials say that while raising rates might provide short-term relief, it would ultimately hurt the economy and lead to higher prices for consumers.

They are calling for a more comprehensive approach to address the VAT issue, including restructuring the tax system.

IC to supervise SSS, GSIS insurance operations

By Marjorie P. Lopez

The Insurance Commission (IC) will take over the supervision of the Social Security System (SSS) and Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) insurance operations, starting next month. The move is part of a reorganization of the IC's functions to ensure that it can effectively regulate and supervise the insurance industry.

The IC is currently responsible for the supervision of the insurance industry, but its functions are divided among several divisions. The new structure will consolidate these functions under a single division, the Insurance Supervision Division (ISD).

The ISD will be responsible for the supervision of all insurance companies, including the SSS and GSIS. It will also be responsible for the supervision of the insurance industry's financial condition, solvency, and the protection of policyholders' interests.

The IC is expected to complete the reorganization by the end of the year. The new structure will be more efficient and effective in its supervision of the insurance industry.

CHI takes stab at good governance

By Marjorie P. Lopez

The Commission on Human Rights (CHR) has taken a significant step towards good governance by adopting a new set of guidelines for its operations. The guidelines are designed to ensure that the CHR's actions are transparent, accountable, and in line with the principles of good governance.

The guidelines cover a wide range of issues, including the CHR's mandate, its powers, its procedures, and its relationship with other government agencies. They also address the CHR's financial management, its personnel management, and its public relations.

The CHR is expected to implement the guidelines by the end of the year. The new guidelines will help the CHR to operate more effectively and to build trust with the public.

Abstracts and "Signs" at Renaissance

White Center by Robert Rauschenberg

Robert Rauschenberg's "White Center" is a large-scale abstract painting that features a bright white center surrounded by soft, blended colors of yellow, green, and blue. The work is a prime example of Rauschenberg's signature style, which combines elements of abstract expressionism with a focus on color and light.
